CZECH FORCE RESENTS TALE OF LOOTING IN SIBERIA

Tokio Minister Declares Supplies Taken Home Are Paid For

Poland Recognises Right Of Ukraine's Plea To Independence

(Reuter's Service)

Tokio, May 1.—The Czecho-Slovak Minister at Tokio has issued a protest against the report from Vladivostok that the Czechs are taking away "loot" from Siberia. The Minister states that the Czechs baggage contains their own purchases only.

"The Czecho-Slovaks," he says "have been a long time in Siberia. Their numbers include many highly educated men, graduates of colleges and universities. The soldiers are allotted a certain amount of pay and instead of spending their income they pooled their resources and founded and financed a large trading company and bank called the "banque des legionnaires czechoslovaques." The men's pay is fixed in francs but paid in roubles and with this they bought considerable supplies which they are now taking home with them.

"What the Czechs did with their income is best illustrated by the fact that in 1918 they subscribed nearly 5,000,000 francs to the loan raised on the initiative of the Czecho-Slovak National Council for the maintenance of the Czecho-Slovak army.

UKRAINEAN INDEPENDENCE IS RECOGNISED BY POLISH

London, May 1.—A body of Bolshevik troops has entered Baku on April 28.

London, April 30.—A Moscow wireless message states that the workers at Baku have overthrown the Government and established a Communist Government which is proposing a military alliance with the Soviets.

Peking, May 2.—Mr. Li Chia-ao, the Chinese High Commissioner in Siberia, has informed the Government that he is now at Tsitsihar where he will remain temporarily with a view to assisting the Tuchun in foreign affairs.

London, April 30.—The Polish Government has officially recognised General Petlura's Government in the Ukraine and acknowledged the right of the Ukraine to independence.

General Pilsudski, commanding the Polish forces, has issued a proclamation declaring that his troops have entered the Ukraine to expel the Bolsheviks and that they will remain until the Ukrainian Government is established, when they will withdraw.

TWELFTH BOLSHEVIST ARMY IS DESTROYED

At the same time General Petlura has issued a manifesto stating that a Polish-Ukrainian agreement has been established under which both Poles and Ukrainians "will fight their common enemy, the Bolsheviks, until Bolshevism has been defeated."

Warsaw, May 1.—It is officially announced that the Poles have occupied Monilev and captured 15,000 prisoners, four aircraft and other important material. The 12th Bolshevik army has been almost destroyed and the remnants are fleeing.

London, May 1.—In view of continued German violations of the established rules, and assaults on the Polish population in the plebiscite territory of East Prussia, the Poles have requested that the whole area should be occupied by Allied troops and also that the German Einwohnerwehr and Buergerwehr (militia) should be suppressed and the Polish Assembly be protected.

Anfuites Defeated In Plan To Get Control Of Bank Of China

Figured On Restoring To Government The Power To Appoint Officials Of The Institution

BY NATHANIEL PEFFER
(Our Peking Correspondent)

Peking, April 28.—An organised effort is now under way to make the Bank of China the private exchequer of the Anfu Club. If it succeeds a staggering blow will be dealt to the already insecure trade of the country. The comic-opera meeting of the club's shareholders was the beginning of the effort.

The meeting broke up in a row after a small group of Anfu men had obstructed the transaction of business. The pretexts were trivial but they were part of a carefully planned design to wrest the control of the bank from the managers and the shareholders.

The Anfu representatives had come to the meeting with proposals for a change in the bank's regulations. They wanted to pass rules prohibiting members of the bank's staffs from voting at meetings even if they were shareholders and from holding proxies. Limiting the voting power to outside shareholders would have eliminated the voice of those managers of large branches who are merely concerned with efficient banking and not with politics and also made easier the acquisition of control by a compact Anfu clique.

But more important than this, the Anfuites planned later to restore to the government the power to appoint the governor and vice-governor of the bank, which had been taken away from the government a few years ago when the shareholders passed a provision that the heads of the bank be appointed by the directors.

ANFU MEN PRESENT

When the meeting was called a small clique of Anfu representatives was present. The agenda of the meeting provided for the reading of the report of the last year's business, the submitting of accounts and then changes in the constitution and other business. But when the accounts were to be submitted the Anfuites insisted that the changes in the constitution be taken up first. The object was to make the changes they favored and, by thus debarring the members of the bank staffs and their proxies, holding a majority of votes. With such a majority or a near-majority they would take up the accounts, trump up charges against the governor and vice-governor based on the accounts, impeach them and name their own men. There was a lengthy debate, the Anfuite leaders obstructing with much argument, clever speakers having been chosen for the purpose.

The argument coming to no purpose, the Anfuites insisted on adjournment. This was opposed by the others, because many of them had come from cities far away. A vote was called for on whether or not to adjourn, but this was opposed by the Anfuites who insisted on an adjournment

MERCHANT FLEET PLAN IN AMERICA BEFORE CONGRESS

New Bill Would Exempt All Steamship Companies From Profits Tax

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 30.—A determined effort is being made in Congress to pass the Bill to build up the American Merchant Fleet in order to afford American owners the opportunity successfully to compete with the fleets of other nations. The policy outlined in the Bill, reported by a special sub-committee, discloses the intention of creating an all-American merchant marine equal to carrying the greater part of the country's commerce. As an inducement to American business men to interest themselves in shipping, it is proposed to exempt all steamship companies from excess profits tax for ten years and direct discrimination against foreign vessels is also contained in the proposal. The Bill will permit the railways to charge less for the carriage of goods designed for export or import in ships of American registry. Permission is also given to the President to abrogate commercial treaties which stand in the way of imposing discriminatory customs duties. The United States Shipping Board will be thoroughly reorganised and empowered to promote and develop ports and transportation facilities.

France Prohibits Importation Of Many Luxuries

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 29.—In order to enforce national economy and to improve the exchange, the French Government has prohibited the importation of many luxuries, mostly finished goods, including diamonds, woven materials, flax, hemp ramie and other vegetable matters and textiles in cotton, wool, goats hair and silk.

British and French traders are in consternation at the wholesale character of the list and the general opinion is that British traders in France will be hard hit and will be forced to close as soon as their present stocks are exhausted unless the importation of many prohibited items is allowed by license.

One of the most important points relates to existing contracts under which millions of pounds worth of goods are being manufactured in Great Britain for France. It appears that only goods already en route will be allowed to enter France.

FRENCH RAILWAY UNIONS TO STRIKE FOR RECOGNITION

Workers Would Reorganise Transport System And Reduce H. C. Of L.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, April 29.—The railway confederation has ordered a general strike to begin on May 1. work to be resumed only upon the order of the Confederation.

Furthermore the General Federation of Labor has announced its general support of a railway strike. The Federation points out that the strike does not relate to increases of pay but aims at securing the Union's right to organise, the nationalisation of railway transport, the reduction of the cost of living and the avoidance of the famine threatening the country.

It insists upon the Government's responsibility in this connection and declares its readiness to make every effort to ensure the success of the railwaymen's strike. The Federation will consequently decide on the manner in which the general forces of Labor shall co-operate.

The Federation will assure the feeding of the country and appeals to all for absolute observance of discipline and solidarity.

London, April 30.—Owing to the resuming of work by the dockers who were on strike in Holland, the British Transport Workers' Federation has raised the sympathetic embargo on the loading, discharging, manning and bunkering in Great Britain of Dutch-owned ships and ships bound for Holland.

London, May 1.—A conference of the South Wales Miners Federation yesterday decided by 2314 votes to 2063 to cancel the strike notices.

Paris, April 30.—The Minister of Works has announced that any railway employee who does not work on May Day will be dismissed and prosecuted, being liable to two years imprisonment.

Washington, April 28.—The Naval Appropriations bill providing for an expenditure of $564,000,000 in 1921 has been passed by the Senate and will come before a conference of both Houses for adjustment, as the Senate increased the appropriation by $40,000,000 over the amount voted by the House of Representatives.

Tokio Workers Celebrate Labor Day Clash With Police

(Reuter's Service)

New York, May 1.—A Hartford (Connecticut) telegram states that the National Guard and police were called out at 2 o'clock this morning to guard the State House, the Municipal Buildings, the electric light plant and the bridge owing to information received that the "Radicals" intended to blow them up.

New York, April 30.—The Federal authorities are taking extraordinary precautions to prevent May Day demonstrations. Special guards have been posted at all public buildings, railroad terminals and churches against which hostile "Radical" sentiments are thought to exist. Special preparations are also being made to protect Justice Weeks on Monday when Jim Larkin, the Irish labor leader, will be brought before him for sentence. Forty "plainclothesmen" besides an unusual number of uniformed policemen will be stationed on the inside and outside of the court-room.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, April 30.—Mr. Palmer, the Attorney-General, announces that plots on the lives of more than a score of Federal and State officials have been planned for May Day in accordance with the program of the Radicals.

Mr. Palmer adds that the Department of Justice has been informed that the instigators of these plots have been working in direct connection and unison with the leaders who are fomenting disorders in Europe and, as in Europe, they are endeavoring to incite strikes in all the basic American industries.

Tons of inflammatory literature have been circulated secretly during the past month. The Attorney-General adds that the Government is forewarned and forearmed.

JAPAN LABORERS OBSERVE MAY DAY

Tokio, May 2.—For the first time in the history of Japan May Day was celebrated by the labor unions here. Approximately 5,000 workers assembled this afternoon in Ueno Park. There were a few minor clashes with the police but the crowds were generally peaceable.

Mr. Bunji Sisuki, President of the Yualkai, delivered a speech after which a resolution was passed urging the abolition of article 17 of the police regulations—referring to the press law and to the holding of political meetings, the effective prevention of non-employment during the financial crisis, and the establishment of minimum wage and an eight hour day. The meeting was adjourned and broke up in an orderly way without incident.

Paris, May 1.—The French Cabinet met yesterday morning under the Presidency of M. Millerand to discuss measures to be taken in connection with May Day

Japan's Economic Crisis Arouses U.S.

(New York Times)

Osaka, May 1.—The latest despatches from New York indicate that America is manifesting the keenest interest in the Japanese economic crisis. The reports state that the American markets are greatly affected.

The sensitiveness of the American markets in the present case appears to be based on the fear that Japan may withdraw her gold deposit from America and also on the fact that the economic conditions which precede a panic are present in America as well as Japan.

Italian Airman Enters Final Lap Of Flight From Rome To Tokio; Landing At Kiangwan Sunday Is Made After Journey With Mail From Foochow; Intrepid Pilot Has Many Adventures On Long Trip Which Was Made In 65 Flying Hours

On the last phase of his history-making journey from Rome to Tokio, Lieutenant Arturo Ferrarin and his 19-year-old mechanic, Mot Cappannini, leave Shanghai Friday morning for Tsingtao. They arrived here Sunday afternoon from Foochow with the first airmail in China's history, making the trip in about five hours.

Tonight the airmen will be the guests at a banquet to be given under the auspices of the Aero Club at the Astor House and Thursday night local Chinese officials will give them a dinner at the Bureau of Foreign Affairs. Yesterday they were entertained at tea by the Italian Consul-General and Lieutenant Ferrarin was presented with a gold medal by the Italian Community.

At 3:12 o'clock Sunday afternoon Cappannini hopped from the cockpit and Ferrarin followed. For some few minutes previous they had been in sight; they had flown twice over Shanghai and had circled the Kiangwan landing field three times before Ferrarin decided to drop into the aerodrome. He came from the due South, flew around the field thrice after spotting it, slipped away to the South, banked and then came directly over the grandstand—barely skimming the roof, it seemed, and glided to the landing field, the trim-looking S. V. A. plane stopping almost at the North end of the aerodrome. Cappannini jumped out. So did Ferrarin. Within a few minutes they were surrounded by greeting officials and admirers who had ran from the South end of the field where the hangars were, to shake hands with the airmen. Cameras clicked and movie men ground out several thousand feet of film for exhibition all over the world.

ESCORTED BY CROWDS

Then Ferrarin and his mechanic went back into the machine, the pilot stood up in the cockpit and handed the mail from Foochow to Lieutenant Bruna Panfili, Italian army flyer who was in charge of the field and landing arrangements.

Escorted by crowds, the airmen were taken to the International Recreation Club pavilion where they were entertained for tea and they then motored to the Astor House where they are the guests of Mr. G. A. Bena, president of the Italian Chamber of Commerce. The men were driven to the hotel in a new Overland car placed at their disposal by the Peking Government.

Hundreds were disappointed at not arriving at the Kiangwan Race track in time to see the landing. The latest news from Foochow Saturday night was that they were hopping off at noon which would bring them to Shanghai between 4 and 5 o'clock. It was not until after 10 o'clock that telegrams from Foochow announced that Ferrarin had left at 10.

NO EXHIBITION PLANNED

He followed the coast from Foochow up to Hangchow, flew over the bay and city and came directly to Shanghai. The pilot picked up the landing field without trouble and although he did not make a perfect landing, he slipped into the aerodrome with ease.

Ferrarin will not give any exhibition during his stay here, saying last night that he was not going to take chances with an accident at the landing field. The flyer has but five more stops before completing his trip from Rome to Tokio. From Shanghai he goes to Tsingtao, Peking, Shingishu, Seoul, Taikiu and Osaka.

Among the hundreds who were present when he landed at Kiangwan Sunday were: G. de Rossi, Italian Consul-General; Mr. G. Ros, Italian Vice-Consul and Mixed Court Assessor; Mr. G. A. Bena, president of the Italian Chamber of Commerce; Mr. Yang Tcheng, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs; Messrs. S. K. Chen and N. T. Yang, secretaries of the Bureau of Foreign Affairs; General Ho Feng-lin, Acting Commissioner of Defense; Mr. Shen Pao-chang, Chinese city magistrate; Mr. Hsu Kuo-liang, superintendent of the Chinese native police; Mr. Jabin Hsu representing the Peking Government, Mr. M. Bentivoglio, secretary of the Italian Chamber of Commerce; Mr. T. Toledano; Mr. E. S. Cunningham, U. S. Consul-General; Mr. R. P. Tenney, U. S. Consul; President Brodie A. Clarke, of the Aero Club; Mr. Y. C. Tong; vice-president of the Aero Club; Lt. L. M. Bocker, secretary of the Aero Club; Major

NEW BERLIN WARSTORES BARED IN STATEMENT

German Army Strength Fixed At 231,000 Officers And Men

ENTENTE WARNS

Allies Still Waiting For Ships Due Under The Treaty

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, May 1.—The ministry of Defense has issued the following statement with regard to German war stores:

"There are 478 heavy and 436 light guns at present at Koenigsberg. The Entente have been offered 12,000 light and 2,500 heavy guns, 3,000 mine throwers 21,000 machine guns, 377,000 rifles, fifteen and a half million rounds of artillery ammunition, 28,000,000 cartridges and all available aircraft, namely 400 aeroplanes.

The strength of the German army on April 5 was 11,500 officers and 220,000 men. The naval conditions have been fulfilled. The Entente have not made any complaint on the subject."

GERMANY REMINDED OF TREATY PLEDGE FAILURE

Paris, May 1.—According to a Berlin telegram to the Agence Havas, the Allied Reparations Commission has addressed a note to the German Government pointing out that although the treaty of Versailles has been in force for over three months, the German Government has so far not handed over any of the merchant vessels stipulated. The Commission declares that no further request on the part of Germany can be considered by the Allies until the necessary tonnage has been delivered.

Berlin, April 30.—The Berlin newspapers report the discovery in the island of Ruegen (Pomerania) of further stores of arms comprising 120 machine guns, 1,000 carbines and a quantity of material. The Commander of the local Landschuetz has been arrested.

Berlin, April 30.—Replying to the German note of April 14, the Reparations Commission pointed out that, although three months had passed since the peace treaty came into force, Germany had not delivered a single vessel.

INSIST ON DELIVERY OF MERCHANT TONNAGE

The Commission declines to consider any further proposal until a satisfactory quantity of tonnage has actually been surrendered and recalls that charter money is payable while the ships are not delivered.

The German Government replied that it is encountering the greatest difficulties in the preparations for the surrender but that a large number of ships are ready to sail. The Government hopes to effect delivery within a few days. The German note adds that good will is not lacking on the part of Germany but that the German nation demands that it shall not be completely ruined economically by being deprived of its last ships.

Paris, April 29.—M. Millerand, in the course of his statement regarding the San Remo conference in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, after outlining the important features of the Allied declaration, proceeded, amid loud applause, "I do not think I am too much of an optimist when I tell you that as a result of our deliberations we are now entering upon the positive period of the execution of the Treaty of Versailles.

MILLERAND STRESSES ON ENTENTE UNITY

"Furthermore the Allied declaration emphasises the fact (which is not its least merit) that the entente among all the Allies is stronger, closer and more active then ever."

The Premier laid stress on the fact that the Allied conferees had considered it of the utmost importance to present a united front to Germany.

M. Millerand was cheered and cheered again when he said: "At the conference certain ideas and certain beliefs were brought to light to which I replied then, and will reply again now, in a word. It appears that certain minds had become uneasy regarding the supposed arriere-pensee underlying the motives of the French people, parliament and Government. I replied that the French people, parliament and government would be unanimous in branding not only as a crime but as nonsense any dream of fresh annexation of German territory."

Interviewed by the correspondent of the New York Herald, M. Millerand remarked: "None of the Allies can now adopt an isolated policy. Italy, Belgium and Japan have subscribed to the agreement reached between Mr. Lloyd George and myself, and I do not for one minute anticipate any occasion arising on which there is likely to be a divergence of views. Germany will also realise this and the knowledge should prove a strong moral force which will strengthen the German Government against the elements which tend to arouse internal difficulties."

Paris, April 29.—In the Senate today M. Millerand stated that he had accepted the offer of the president of the German delegation to arrange a meeting of French and German economists with a view to a general exchange of opinions in order to elucidate all questions with regard to Franco-German transactions.

FRANCO-GERMAN PACTS ARE TO BE DISCUSSED

The Premier said that his opinion was that the meeting would yield rapid and fruitful results.

Brussels, May 1.—King Albert presided at a meeting of the Cabinet yesterday at which the Minister for Foreign Affairs, M. Hymans, delivered a statement on the San Remo conference. The Cabinet congratulated M. Hymans and M. Jaspar, Minister of Economic Relations, on their action at the conference.

London, April 29.—Speaking at a Scottish banquet in London tonight Field-Marshal Sir William Robertson, replying to the toast of the Imperial Forces, said that the successes of the war were primarily due to the solidity of the Empire.

"Germany, "he said," was down but not out and the nations of the Empire would be well advised seriously to consider whether the necessary economies in expenditure could not be effected in other directions with less risk than in unduly reducing the depleted strength of the Imperial Forces upon which the welfare of the Empire depended."

U.S. WILL PARTICIPATE IN BRUSSELS CONFERENCE

London, May 1.—It is reported from Washington that the United States will be represented at the forthcoming inter-Allied financial conference at Brussels, subject to the understanding that there shall be no pooling of the Allies' debts to America.

London, May 1.—Mr. Lloyd George has a slight attack of bronchitis and has been ordered to stay in bed for two days. The Prime Minister's early engagements have had to be cancelled.

Washington, April 29.—At yesterday's sitting of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, Senator Knox (Republican) introduced his substitute for the resolution adopted by the House of Representatives declaring the state of war with Germany at an end. The resolution was briefly discussed. There are indications of opposition to the resolution from the Democrats. The resolution likewise provides for the establishment of peace with Austria.

NEW GERMAN ENVOYS DEPART FOR PEKING

Berlin, May 1.—The staffs of the German Legation to Peking and the Embassy in Tokio left Hamburg today on board a Japanese steamer. The New German Ambassador to Japan, Dr. Sorf, will follow later.

Brussels, May 1.—In view of the forthcoming conference of the heads of the Allied and German Governments at Spa, fixed for May 25, it is probable that the financial conference convoked by the League of Nations will not meet here until the beginning of June.

Madrid, May 1.—Marshal Joffre, accompanied by the French Ambassador, M. de Saint-Aulaire, left for Barcelona last night. The Spanish Ministers of Foreign Affairs, War and Marine, the Embassy staff and other high officials were present at the station to take leave of the Marshal, who was enthusiastically cheered by the crowed.

and the situation created by the threatened railway strike.

PARIS TRANSPORTATION NOT AFFECTED MAY 1

After the meeting, the Minister of Public Works, le Trocquer made the following statement to representatives of the press.

"I continue to have the greatest confidence, for I have had a long acquaintance with the personnel of the railways. They will not let themselves be intimidated by plotters or extremists, the majority of whom are not railway employes. Every precautionary measure has been taken and the railwaymen's freedom to work will be assured."

Paris, May 2.—With the exception of a few demonstrations May Day passed off quietly in Paris as in the rest of France. All the public services, water, gas, electricity, posts and telegraphs, etc., were absolutely normal. Transportation in the capital was but little affected, 50 percent of the tramways were running.

STUDENTS IN PEKING FIX "ANTI-TRAITOR" DAY

Paris, April 30.—The Labor organisations have decided to make the strike on May 1 general for 24 hours. A limited number of public services like water and lighting only will be available. A miners' strike has been averted as the demands of the State quarry workers to receive the same pensions as the miners has been conceded.

Peking, May 2.—Peking students have decided to celebrate May 4, the anniversary of the "demonstration against traitors." The students yesterday drove round the city in motor cars, distributing pamphlets calling on "our dear colleagues to celebrate May first in honor of the union of labor on which day our American brethren secured the eight-hour working day and which is celebrated throughout the world.

BOLSHEVIST DOCTRINES ARE LAID TO STUDENTS

"Our Chinese brethren are not yet aware of the significance of the day and we feel bound to inform them. We should all work and all eat. Those eating without labor, such as officials, politicians, capitalists, missionaries, priests, monks, beggars, robbers, immoral persons, etc., should be deprived of existence among us in order to avoid the harm they do us.

"We should therefore unite and take back the lands, farms, factories, machinery plants, and materials and place them at our disposal. In so doing we wonder who dare play the highhanded part of suppressing our efforts. Stand up, dear colleagues! Offer congratulations by ceasing work for the day! Give cheers for May 1."

The police promptly replied to the query contained in the pamphlets by arresting six students who it is understood will be charged with spreading Bolshevist doctrines.

21 DEMANDS ANNIVERSARY

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 3.—In addition to the celebration of "Traitor Day" tomorrow, the Peking students propose to celebrate May 7 as the anniversary of the "Twenty One Demands." If the police do not interfere processions will be carried out. The police, however, have made preparations for all contingencies.

The military as well as the students have arranged a demonstration for tomorrow when gun practice will be carried out within hearing of Peking.

U.S. Navy Prepares To Make Payments On Debt To Britain

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, April 29.—The Controller of the Treasury has ruled that the Navy Department shall make a payment of 5 percent on deferred obligations to Great Britain incurred by the United States navy during the war. 150 Casualties In India Train Wreck

(Reuter's Service)

Bombay, April 29.—The railway collision near Moradabad on April 27, in which, it is now reported, 150 persons were killed, was due to an over-crowded express dashing into a goods-train A gas tank burst and caused the fire in the four carriages. The numbers of the killed include almost the entire company of three Hindo marriage parties.

Olympic Attractions

Pleasure seekers during race-week will find all they can desire in the programs offered them by the Humphrey Bishop Company at the Olympic. The houses there are increasing in size and enthusiasm nightly, Shanghai appears to be realising how talented and versatile is this merry band of artistes.

Tonight, Tuesday, they are presenting their fourth complete change of program, consisting of excerpts from that most tuneful of operas, "Les Cloches de Corneville," and a fresh selection from their vaudeville repertoire in which more than one member of the company appears in a new and unexpected light.

The excerpts from "Les Cloches" promise to be particularly appealing, all the company's most prominent singers having striking solo numbers in which they are supported by the full company as chorus. The opening scene, in which Walter Kingsley renders "Let Our Torches," is as spectacular as it is finely musical. Miss Louise Meadows and Maurice Jaffry have fine numbers in "The Legend of the Bells" and "On Billows Rocking," and the famous trio, "I'll shut my eyes" sung by Marcelene Boulais, Maurice Jaffry and Walter Kingsley should be very strong.

The great Misseo Lecue will be presented by Robert Roberts and the full company and the finale of the first half of the performance will be perhaps the most striking exhibition the company has yet given of its musical strength.

In the vaudeville section of the program many surprises are included. Joe Brennan, "wanting something to practise on," may be expected to bring down the house again as he has done every time he has appeared on the stage. Mr. Humphrey Bishop himself appears in this program as a vaudeville artist, and his volte-face will be watched with interest. Miss Ida Newton, discoursing of ribbons and laces, should be as pignante as ever, and the vivacious Cela Hardie, addressing Shanghai in race-week, is likely to cause much amusement with her insistent quiry, "Who's the lady?"

We will not disclose any more of the good things to be found at the Olympic, but we would advise those who lose at the races to go and be cheered up, and those who win to fill full the cup of pleasure, by paying a visit to the Humphrey Bishop Co.

¶ Every man should consider himself fortunate who has a wife or mother who helps him to save money.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Shanghai, May 2.—Lieutenant Ferrarin, in conversation with Reuter's correspondent vouchsafed the following details among others out of the store of his experiences on his magnificent flight from Rome to Shanghai, which has been accomplished in no more than 65 flying hours.

Lieutenants Ferrarin and Masiero embarked on the flight somewhat dramatically at 48 hours notice. They had just returned to Rome from a special mission to Paris, when they were asked to join the flight in place of two non-starters. There was no time to go home, so they telegraphed that they were going to fly to Tokio, and set out without more ado.

Lieutenant Ferrarin received the first news of his family since the start from Rome on February 26 on arriving in Shanghai today.

The two airmen who were the last to join the flight are the first to accomplish it. Inseparable in war, they have been practically inseparable all the way from Rome to Shanghai.

TOGETHER ON FLIGHT

From Rome to Adalia they flew together. From Adalia to Karachi, Lieutenant Ferrarin, impatient to reach the goal, was ahead. At Karachi they met again and flew together to Rangoon. Here Lieutenant Ferrarin's engine required repairs necessitating a stay of 20 days and Lieutenant Masiero left 20 days ahead (20 days, Lieut. Ferrarin said in parenthesis, very agreeably spent chiefly in the company of the Australian airmen, Capt. Matthews and Lieut. Mackintosh who were en route for Australia). Lieutenant Ferrarin caught his companion up at Hanoi, whence they started together for Canton.

Lieutenant Ferrarin, as is known, had to come down on the way, but both airmen again set out together from Canton to Foochow.

The landing ground at Canton was impossibly bad, and it was by a miracle that Lieut. Ferrarin was able to take off successfully. Lieut. Masiero's accident has already been described.

At Foochow the landing ground was deep in water this morning, but again skilful airmanship overcame the difficulty. The conditions of today's flight were the most perfect of any since the start from Rome.

FIRED ON BY ARABS

From Rome to Aleppo the flight was uneventful although between Salonika and Smyrna the physical difficulties were tremendous. Between Aleppo and Bagdad, Lieut. Ferrarin, then alone, was fired on by Arabs with machine guns. On arriving at Bagdad Lieut. Ferrarin reported this to the British officer in charge, an old war acquaintance, who immediately sent out a machine to bomb the assailants.

The two hardest stages were between Bunder-Abbas and Karachi and between Rangoon and Bangkok, the first being over precipitous mountain ranges, and the latter through semi-impenetrable tropical mists. Lieut. Masiero accomplished the Bunder-Abbas-Karachi stage in one flight but Lieut. Ferrarian had to descend shortly after passing Chaubar owing to engine trouble.

The British Consul at Bunder Abbas had thoughtfully provided him with a document signed by a local chieftain which was to serve as a passport. Lieut. Ferrarin, who on landing was surrounded by a swarm of Baluchis, presented the passport but without effect. He and his mechanic were promptly arrested and shut up in a room for two hours. He was eventually released on undertaking to perform a dance round his aeroplane.

MAY FLY TO AMERICA

So the airman danced round his S.V.A. while a native furiously beat a tom-tom and others drummed on the wings of the aeroplane in unison, to an audience of countless squatting figures. So much was the performance to the taste of the Baluchis, that the latter agreed to allow the airman to make an exhibition flight. Lieut. Ferrarin obligingly went up and after delighting the spectators with a few evolutions, headed straight for Karachi, to the consternation of his late captors.

At Delhi Lieut. Ferrarin landed in full moonlight, when he was least expected by the local authorities.

Many temptations lie in wait for the world flyer. Enterprising business men in many places offered huge sums to the airmen if they would drop advertisements of their wares over the town. Astute financiers at Aleppo offered 50,000 francs for every 60 kilogrammes of gold carried to Bagdad usually a 15 days' journey, accomplished in 6½ hours by air. Needless to say the Italian airmen scorned the offer.

Lieut. Ferrarin has seen and tried most types of aeroplanes but for long distance flights he is still of the opinion that there is nothing to equal the S.V.A. Not satisfied with flying from Rome to Tokio, this intrepid airman is cogitating continuing the journey by air from Japan, across the Pacific to America.

SEAPLANE MISSING

(French Wireless Service)

Paris, May 1.—A Tunism message states that seaplane No. 45 piloted by Sub-Lieutenant Renoux taking part in the Monaco-Bizerta flight, left Cagliari at 4:30 p.m on Thursday and has not since been heard of. Three torpedo boats and other Italian craft are searching for the seaplane.

Airman Is Guest At Olympic Show

Four boxes at the Olympic Theater were assigned to the use of Lieut. Ferrarin and members of the reception committee by the management of the playhouse and that of the Humprey Bishop Company, which is filling an engagement there, last evening. The boxes were decorated with flags and the Italian flyer was given a warm reception by the theatergoers.

The performance was excellent and every member of the company seemed to be exerting the utmost effort to pay tribute to the airman who is in Shanghai on Rome to Tokio flight.

War Committee Receives Reports

Memorial Design Plans Submitted—Architects Awards Adopted

The Shanghai War Volunteer Memorial Committee met in the Municipal Council room on Saturday to receive the report of the advisory committee of architects —Messrs. S. J. Halee, R. C. Turner, and H. F. Boissezon—in connection with the competition for a memorial design. Four sets of drawings were submitted, and one set of models, and the committee unanimously adopted the architects' recommendation that the awards be made as follows:

First prize, Tls. 750, Messrs. Stewardson and Spence.

Second prize, Tls. 500, Messrs. Graham Browne and Wingrove.

Third prize, Tls. 250, Mr. A. Llewellyn Taylor (Messrs. Arts and Crafts, Ltd.).

A public exhibition of the designs will be arranged in the course of a few days.

The winning design takes the form of a massive granite pedestal some 40 feet high supporting a bronze statuary group representing victorious Peace offering consolation to the widows and orphans with other decoration and appropriate inscription (which will be in Latin), with space for the Roll of Honor.

The monument rests upon a raised paved platform covering the greater part of the space available, and this is surrounded by a balustrade of solid design and platform approached by a flight of six broad, shallow steps, of the maximum length obtainable, a feature which always gives dignity to such a monument. In order to make the most of the space obtainable and also to form an impressive bastion of support as viewed from the river, it is suggested that the East face of the balustraded enclosure be carried out some feet over the sloping bund face, a feature which might be still further developed with a broad segmental bulge, which would emphasise and strengthen the podium to a greater degree from the water front and give greater space round the base of the monument.

The material suggested is Honan or Hongkong granite, with paving design delineated in the two materials which are of lighter and darker shades of grey. The figures would be in bronze and be modelled in Europe.

The cost of this memorial, depending very largely upon the present price of bronze, is only approximately given, and as the emblematical figures suggested by the designers may have to be modified, an estimate will not be announced until the matter has been gone into in more detail.

BOMBSHELL FIRED BY M. POINCARE

(Daily Chronicle)

Paris, March 13.—M. Poincare, who, on resuming private life after seven years of office as President of the Republic, accepted the post of chief political writer on the Revue des Deux Mondes, has contributed his first article in the current number of the review.

M. Poincare is not at all an enthusiastic admirer of the Versailles Treaty.

"France," he says, "consented to the Armistice only on condition that reparations and guarantees should be accorded her. When the terms of the treaty became known she found that the guarantees were somewhat deceptive."

Yet a rumor is going round the world to the effect that if the treaty is carried out it will mean the ruin of Germany. M. Poincare suggests that "it would be better if France, before weeping over the fate of Germany, thought of her own devastated regions."

"WEATHERCOCK POLICY"

M. Poincare hits rather hard at the men who drew up the Treaty, and also at their methods of working.

He speaks of the "multitude of questions which have been the object of haphazard and contradictory solutions."

Of this "ever-changing attitude of the Allies on many problems, notably the questions of the Orient, the Adriatic, and the Soviets" he gives as an example of "weathercock policy," the question of Constantinople, which kept the Quai d'Orsay and Downing Street "busy playing at cross-purposes."

M. Pichon (relates the ex-President) had drawn up, when he was still at the Foreign Office, a remarkable memorandum in favor of the maintenance of the Sultan in Constantinople.

"During his last visit to London M. Clemenceau strongly supported M. Pichon's view, but he found Mr. Lloyd George rather in favor of the expulsion of the Sultan, and by way of conciliation M. Clemenceau soon accepted the point of view of his subtle and ardent English colleague.

"A few days later M. Clemenceau, back in Paris, returned to his original opinion, while Mr. Lloyd George also modified his opinion, and found brilliant arguments to support the view which M. Clemenceau had already sacrificed."

'SCRAP THE COUNCIL'

M. Poincare concludes that the best method would be for the heads of the Allied Governments to entrust the negotiations to diplomats, under the direction of their respective Governments, a method which would enable the various Premiers to carry on their ordinary duties, and do away with their frequent cross-Channel traveling.

M. Poincare does not think anybody in France would be very grieved if the Supreme Council was to enter upon its last long sleep.

London, April 30.—The Sinn Feiners in Cork have now rounded up the last man concerned in the hold-up of bank officials on November 17 last and he has handed over his share of the spoil. The Sinn Feiners have sentenced the six men they have captured to temporary deportation. All of the £18,000 stolen is now in the hands of the Sinn Feiners.

The captors have offered to hand over the captives to the bank officials, as they state that they have evidence against the men in connection with the hold-up. The officials declined on the ground that the Crown alone could prosecute.

One hundred and forty-five Sinn Feiners who are on hunger-strike in Belfast gaol have sent an ultimatum to the Governor of the gaol demanding unconditional release.

The Cork-Bantry mail-train was held up at Kinsale Junction today by a party of armed and masked men and two mail-bags taken. The road surrounding the junction is being strongly guarded. This is the third time that the train has been robbed.

London, April 30.—In consequence of the repeated Sinn Fein demonstrations in Wormwood Scrubbs Prison which led to stone-throwing and assaults by hostile crowds, mounted police intervened this evening and, cleared the common and escorted the demonstrators to safety.

London, May 1.—There were renewed Sinn Fein demonstrations outside Wormwood Scrubbs prison yesterday. The crowd attacked 500 Sinn Feiners who were accompanied by an escort wearing steel helmets and carrying shillalahs. A general melee ensued resulting in many casualties. The injured were treated at an improvised dressing station.

Official Tolerance Of Brothels Scored

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 29.—The lower house of the Anglican Convocation has passed a resolution denouncing official tolerance of disorderly houses and urging that such places should be put out of bounds wherever British troops are stationed.

The mover of the resolution, the Dean of Lincoln, asserted that the official promise to put such houses out of bounds had not been kept and that some had been started recently in India, Gibraltar, Burmah, the Straits Settlements, the Malay States and Hongkong.

He paid a tribute to General Lord Plumer's efforts to end the scandal of the traffic in women in India.

Inside Story Of Anfu Club's Attempt On Bank Of China

by order of the chairman, Feng Keng-kwan. The Anfuites objected to a vote, because at that time they were in a minority. The chairman nevertheless ordered a vote.

That made little difference to the Anfuites. Four or five of them gathered around the voting box and announced that nobody would be allowed to approach. Finally one hardy spirit did approach and tried to drop his voting slip into the box. There was a scuffle, one or two non-Anfu faces were slapped and the meeting broke up—which was what the Anfuites wanted.

BEGIN TO GET ROUGH

Now, why, since the Anfuites were numerically in a minority and the leaders were less than a half dozen, the others present did not pounce on them and throw them out of the window when they began getting rough is a mystery that only a lengthy psychological study of the Chinese can explain. The fact is they didn't and that the meeting of the government bank of the country was broken up by a small group using ruffian tactics after a farce that could have been enacted in no other country in the world.

The farce may have some serious results. The Anfuites will renew their efforts to get control. If another meeting is called it is probable that most of the shareholders will be afraid to attend. The Anfuites will probably have their own way. They will name their own governor and vice-governor. They will change the heads of the branches throughout the country. The Bank of China funds will be used for their political purposes and for their private footing. The Bank of China notes in other centers which now are on a par with silver, will fall as have the Bank of China notes in Peking—to somewhere between fifty and sixty cents and for the same reason. The bank will be used as it was in Yuan Shih-k'ai's time by Liang Shih-yi—for the realisation of political aims. But as the Bank of China in the trading centers of the provinces is one of the main arteries of commerce, the result will be a serious drag on Chinese trade in places where politics has not previously entered.

U.S. Asks Rehearing On Steel Trust Suit

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, April 29.—The Government has asked the Supreme Court to grant a rehearing of the suit for the dissolution of the Steel Corporation.

Counsel for the Government argued that the opinion of the Court that the Steel Corporation was a legal combination under the Anti-Trust Acts appeared to conflict with the conclusions expressed in other decisions.

Counsel submitted that in view of the possible effect of the decision on other pending anti-trust suits, it was clearly the duty of the Government to seek a rehearing of the case.

EIGHTH SESSION HELD BY CHINA CHURCH WORKERS

Christian Unity In Far East Is Ultimate Object Of Missionaries

The China Continuation Committee met in its eighth annual session at 10 o'clock Monday morning, May 3. Eighty percent of the membership was present, about one-third being Chinese. The principal event of the morning was an address by the Chairman, Bishop Roots, in which he dealt with the movement for Christian unity in China. It was shown that the China Continuation Committee represents 100 different missionary societies; many kinds of mission work and several political and racial divisions. Different schools of theology also are represented among its members.

The task of Christian missions was defined in the large as that of saving China. For this it is necessary that the whole force in the Christian church in China move together. Nothing less than a united movement can prove to the Chinese nation that God sent Jesus Christ to save the world. The speaker showed that while there were difficulties in the way of this co-ordination of Christian forces, yet progress is being made in plans for securing Christian leadership and Christian literature.

PRINCIPAL TOPIC

The principal topic of the afternoon was the report of a special Committee on the promotion of the Phonetic Script. In this connection encouraging progress has been made and certain fundamental difficulties unearthed. Already 3,590,500 copies of special phonetic literature have been published, containing in all 5,889,000 pages. The British and Foreign Bible Society has also published special Scripture portions amounting to 110,000 copies and 10,507,000 pages.

Among this literature are four primers designed to help in improving the teaching methods used, as one of the difficulties is found to be the use of old pedagogical methods. One novel "The Lottery" has also been published in this script. A number of letters written in Phonetic script by illiterate women were read. These expressed gratification at the great help the promotion of this national system of symbols was rendering them. Most significant was a letter from the Minister of Education in Peking, a most learned and enthusiastic supporter of this national system of phonetics. The main objects of this system of phonetics were said to be, as far as the China Continuation Committee is concerned, to render assistance in the unification on the pronunication of the Chinese language, and to promote the reading of the scriptures in China.

An adaptation of the National System for use in Shanghai and Soochow has been received from members of the Ministry of Education which is already being taught in the Wu dialect region. Furthermore, by order of the Minister of Education the national spoken language is to take the place of the national classical language in the first and second year classes of the Government primary schools beginning with this autumn.

PHOENETIC SYSTEM

Here is where the National phonetic system is linked with the movement to use the vernacular. Dr. Fong F. Sec said that the China Continuation Committee had succeeded in convincing the Commercial Press that the Phonetic Script would go, and hence from a business standpoint it was worth while to publish books in phonetic.

In this way the Christian forces in China are co-operating with the Chinese Government in helping to stem the tide of ignorance by making knowledge more readily available to the illiterate.

In the report dealing with staff matters it was announced that Mr. Chen Tien-shen had left the staff of the C. C. C. to become field secretary of the Yunnan Mission.

It was also announced that Mr. C. L. Boynton had resigned from the office of Statistical Secretary to accept a call to the business managership of the Shanghai American School. Mr. Boynton has been an invaluable help. Plans are on foot to secure another missionary for this position. Miss Rennie has completed her term of service, and is to take up evangelistic work in connection with the American Church Mission in Wusih.

On the recommendation of the Executive Committee it was voted to request Bishop Roots to represent the China Continuation Committee at the International Missionary Conference to be held in Switzerland in June.

Most of the time of the Conference is to be given to the consideration of the China for Christ Movement, a general missionary conference in 1921 and the problem of national organisation for co-operative missionary enterprises.

ZIONISTS' HOPE IS IN PALESTINE

Dr. Nordau Asserts Jewish People Must Create Strong Commonwealth There

BY DR. MAX NORDAU

(World's Leading Zionist)

The people of Israel are at present living in the most momentous hours of its 3,000 years' history. It stands at the parting of the ways, which may lead either to glory or disaster.

The world war, which has scarcely finished, was largely a war of the Jewish people. That seems a paradox, yet it is absolutely true.

There are something like 13,000,000 Jews in the world, including those sections of our people which are living in neutral countries. We furnished 900,000 soldiers to the various armies in the war. That means about 7 percent of the whole number of Jews. This proportion has been equalled by few, and surpassed, I believe, only by one of the contending nations, the French.

We have had 80,000 dead, who fell on the battlefields or succumbed to their wounds, and about 200,000 casualties.

Now all the other peoples that participated in the war knew exactly what they fought for; they had concrete interests, which they understood and for what they considered it worth risking and sacrificing their lives. What have we Jews fought for? We fought for the sake of our different native countries. We were inspired, we were moved by our sense of duty and loyalty to the different lands of our birth. We went to war with enthusiasm in those countries where we enjoyed justice and liberty and where we were treated in the same manner as all the other inhabitants of the country.

In the countries of the East of Europe we can no longer speak merely of anti-Semitism; the most criminal passions are let loose against our people, and find vent in outrage bloodshed and crimes of every description.

The National Home will be what we shall make it. The calculated vagueness of the word is to me itself an encouragement. We cannot reasonably expect that the English Government should offer to build up in Palestine a complete State with a well-ordered administration, sound finances, reliable and numerous armies strong enough to secure the country against foreign enemies and to maintain peace and order in the interior, and perhaps also a system of international relations and alliances, and when all this is done to invite the Jewish people graciously to take possession of the new and comfortable palatial home which she has furnished and prepared to accommodate them.

We must credit the British Government with good faith and honest intentions. The wording of the Declaration is not decisive. It depends on the spirit in which it will be read, interpreted and realised. If we doubt the good will and good intentions of governments, then even the most brilliant treaty might eventually turn out to be a scrap of paper. We want to become a nation taking its rank with all the other nations, the powerful and the minor ones, in the League of Nations, and fulfill our duty in that collectivity. We want to make Palestine a small but strong Commonwealth, which will be an example of progress and civilisation to the world.

Record Crowd Out For First Day Of Races; Pennyfield Is Winner Of Criterion Stakes

Favorites In General Run To Form But Opening Card Of Spring Meeting Of Shanghai Club Also Carries Unlooked For Surprises—Track Record Lowered In Main Event—Contenders For Today's Derby Appear—Forecast Is For Continued Bright Sunny Weather With Course In Best Of Condition—Champions Sweeps Selling Goes To High Mark

If an augury is to be taken from yesterday's races, the Spring Meeting of the Shanghai Race Club this year, to be held through three more days this week, will eclipse the meetings of all former years in interest, in attendance, in the quality of sport and, not least in importance, in the amount of money that will change hands. Probably the largest gathering that ever turned out for an opening day appeared yesterday at the race course. The mists that had obscured the sun in the morning had vanished before the afternoon's events had well started and had given place to bright sunshine. The track was fast and hard.

In general through yesterday's card favorites ran evenly to form, though there were one or two surprises, and for the most part dividend payments were not at all remarkable. Exceptions to this will be noted in the first and second races. In the first race, six holders of tickets for place in The Whippet won awards of $154.30. In the second race those who pinned their faith to Pennyfield, and thirty ticket holders did this, received as a dividend $217.80.

OPENING RACE RESULTS

The opening race, The Subscription Griffins' Scramble, brought 13 starters to the post, and they got away closely bunched after the false start with Mr. McMonk's chestnut The Whippet, ridden by Mr. Wingrove setting the pace. When they rounded into the final stretch of the half mile of the race the contest narrowed to a struggle between Toc Emma, The Whippet, Jaunty Jock and Caprice. In the final dash the victory went to Toc Emma with the Whippet and Caprice in order.

The Criterion Stakes was the main event of the day and was the second race. In this event the track record for a mile that was made just a year ago by Silver Streak was lowered a fifth of a second, from 2:01 1/5 to even 2:01.

There were 16 starters in the big race and when they got away after several false starts the Flyer led with Jet, Woodland King and Tichfield close behind. With a half of the distance covered Tichfield and Woodland King both forged forward with Pennyfield on the outside pressing them closely. In the finish the race lay between Pennyfield, Triumph and The Heron and they finished in this order with Triumph less than a head behind the victor and leading The Heron by less than a half length.

The Griffins Plate was the third race with eleven starters. Spartan King and Redskin led the pack at the outset until Dusty Miller forged far into the lead. In the contest in the final stretch Dusty Miller lost much of the ground gained but still held the lead into the finish, a half length ahead of Spartan King and The Ptarmigan finishing neck and neck, a dead heat for place.

CATHAY CUP NOTEWORTHY

The Cathay Cup, fourth race of the card, was one of the noteworthy contests of the day. The race started with Little Dipper and Solaro in the lead and with Fighting King and The Wise Bird leading Silver Streak, The Eagle and Rouble, Silver Streak was favorite, but it seemed as the field rounded into the stretch that the grey was pocketed. Mr. Johnstone was able to push through however, into a remarkable finish with the Eagle and won by a short head. Rouble finished third.

The noteworthy victory of The Merlin in the fifth race, The Pou-Ma-Ting Cup, brings the Winsome and Hasty chestnut into prominence as a likely contender in The Derby today, though the pony of this stable counted on for the Derby had been The Ptarmigan.

The Pou-Ma-Ting Cup was The Merlin's race from start to finish, as the chestnut took the lead from the start and after holding it from Pussyfoot and Churchill in the back stretch, led the way into the home stretch and won from Churchill by four lengths. Churchill led Exchequer Bill who finished third by about the same distance.

18 START IN SIXTH

The sixth race, The Hart-Legacy Cup brought out one of the biggest fields of the day, 18 starters, provided one of the great finishes of the day and upset a flock of calculations as neither of two prime favorites, The Hawk and Wilson, finished in the money. The Hawk and Wilson got away in the lead and The Hawk held the place into the stretch, but after a fight had to give place to Sandy, Joel Scott and The Dancing Bird. Sandy finished a half length ahead of Jock Scott in second place and The Dancing Bird a short head behind.

McBAIN WINS SEVENTH

Major William R. McBain, known for his achievements overseas as an air fighter, rode his own pony, the piebald Florina, to a great victory in the seventh race. The Jockey Cup. It was his first win on the course since he returned from the war. The race brought out twelve starters. In the first half was a contest between Big Ben, Inniskilling, Saey Tai and Djemnah with Big Ben leading until the final stretch was reached. Here Djemnah and Lightning Raider swept forward with Florinda close behind. Almost to the finish it looked like Djemnah's race, but in the last few yards Florina edged into the lead and took the race by a short half length. Djemnah in second place was less than a half length ahead of Lightning Raider in third.

The Corncrake of Messrs. Winsome and Hasty's stable which has won place in all but one of its last ten races proved its mettle again by winning the eighth race, The Kiangsu Cup. In the face of the Corncrake's record Hallowe'en was the favorite, due to the distance of a mile and three-quarters, but after Rosewood had set the pace all the way around into the stretch The Corncrake, Mazurek and Hallowe'en closed in and near the finish The Corncrake shot out three lengths into the lead. Mazurek finished second a length ahead of Hallowe'en.

Mr. Belinda's bay Tyneside won the Ecliose stakes, the ninth race and so becomes a formidable contender in today's Derby. All the way round into the stretch the final contest lay between Tyneside, Bachelor Tax and Comedy King and at the finish Tyneside led by a half length with Bachelor Tax in second place leading Comedy King by a length.

EASTWARD HO! WINS

Another likely candidate for today's Derby will be Mr. S. B. M. Bremner's grey Eastward Ho! which was an easy winner yesterday in the tenth race. The Spring Subscription Griffin Stakes. Eastward Ho! led the way into the stretch and kept the place to the end finishing two lengths ahead of Jaunty Jock with Galopin in third place two lengths behind.

Winsome and Hasty's dun The Ptarmigan qualified for the Derby in the final race yesterday. The Hongkong Plate, winning the race after a sharp contest in the stretch by a half length from Djemnah. Spartan King finished in third place three-quarters of a length behind the Toeg and Dubby pony.

RIDER IS HURT

An accident that gave a thrill to the crowd occurred in the seventh race when Mr. L. V. Jenson riding his pony Thermometer was unseated when the pony stumbled and went to its knees in the back stretch. While the field raced on the rider was left behind on the course unconscious until he was picked up by several policemen. He revived sufficiently to be able to walk back to the club house where he was attended by Dr. E. G. Gauntlett and was then sent to his home. The rider's left ear was torn, his left shoulder was bruised and he suffered other bruises.

Among the riders yesterday Mr. William Hill won premier place, for of the nine races in which he started he finished first in four, second in one and third in two. Mr. A. J. P. Heard was a close second as he won three of his races, finished second in one and third in one.

The Winsome and Hasty stable made the best showing among the stables taking three firsts, one second and two thirds. Mr. John Ford's ponies took two first places.

Present indications are that this meeting's first prize in The Champions will go to a record and it is now thought that the $100,000 mark will be passed. At the close of yesterday's racing a few more than 13,000 tickets for The Champions, which will be run in the ninth race Wednesday, had been sold.

1.—The Subscription Griffins Scramble.—Winner, Tls. 300. Second, Tls. 150. Third, Tls. 75. For all Subscription Griffins of this meeting.

A WARNING TO MOTHERS

Never give a baby a sleeping draught, a soothing mixture, or an opiate of any kind whatever, except by the order of a competent doctor who has seen the child. All these things are poison, and they are moreover utterly needless, while the sleep they give is unhealthy, unnatural and injurious.

In Baby's Own Tablets there is not one atom of "sleeping stuff." Yet by their beneficial, healthy action they give refreshing sleep sleep from which the child awakens bright and well.

Mrs. George Foote, of St. Thomas Ontario, Canada, writes:—"My baby was troubled with diarrhoea, was very restless and cross, and got but very little sleep. I hardly knew what to do with her. I got a bottle of Baby's Owo Tablets and after using them she could sleep well and her bowels became regular. I am much pleased with the Tablets and think them a fine medicine."

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are obtainable from chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Paint Means More Than Color

Hand mixed paint may have the right color; but unless it contains good materials, properly proportioned and mixed, it does not last; it fails to protect wood-work against moisture; it does not even retain its color beyond a very short period.

Certain-teed

Paints and Varnishes

are not merely machine mixed—they are planned—constructed—built—to meet every condition of usage or weather. Each indoor or outdoor requirement is cared for by a Certain-teed Paint or Varnish made of the right materials properly blended to meet adequately that particular requirement. Certain-teed paints spread farther and last longer than ordiary paints; they cost less in the long run.

Truscon Masonry Paints

are especially prepared for waterproofing, damp-proofing and painting cement, stucco concrete and brick construction. They are supplied in a variety of colors, producing handsome effects both on inside and outside of residences, factories and office buildings.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given your physician know of what to your children unless you or it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results."
W. A. CRANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments."
F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."
N. B. SIZER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Montagu Silver Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 29.—Messrs. Montagu's silver report for April 29, says: "The recent steadiness depended almost entirely upon Indian buying orders but the exchange position with China seems to have caused a sudden cessation of Indian inquiry and consequently the price declined sharply on Tuesday.

The price afterwards became harder owing to dear covering. Today it was easier with large offerings from the continent. The United States is said to be overstocked with Eastern commodities, and the unsatisfactory condition of Japan is considered to be against active purchases from China and India, India therefore is the only possible absorber of silver. Europe will continue to have more sellers than buyers."

China Cotton Yarn Price Drops; Slump In Japan Blamed

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, May 2.—The fortnightly Price Current and Market Report published by the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce, states:

Cotton yarn.—The further slump in Japan has accentuated matters here and the prices at which Chinese are realising their holdings show heavy declines. There is no business passing through the hands of importers. No reliable quotations can be given. Arrivals, 1,000 bales. Sales, nil. Shipments, nil. Unsold stock, 4,000 bales. Bargains, 15,000 bales.

Raw cotton: Very small business transpired. Rates are $36 to $41 for Indian and $40 to $50 per picul for Chinese descriptions.

NEW ANGLE ON WEST INDIES DEAL

(Daily Mail, London)

New York, March 4.—The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce says that the prosecution of a plan for the purchase "of some part of Great Britain's territorial possessions in this continent, including the islands of the West Indies, will be the first task to which the new Secretary of State, Mr. Bainbridge Colby, will address himself when he enters upon his duties."

The correspondent observes that there is a growing apprehension in Administration circles lest there may develop through the summer and during the Presidential campaign a strong anti-British sentiment. The condition in which the debt of Great Britain to this country stands is the chief element of danger in an anti British campaign, and the Administration is represented as taking the view that "the proposed plan would go far to make the American people more reconciled to that debt."

With the object presumably of eliciting expressions of British opinion, Mr. W. G. McAdoo, the former Secretary of the Treasury, yesterday sponsored the suggestion, which hitherto had enjoyed greater popularity in what might be termed strongly Nationalist Republican circles than among his own party colleagues.

He observes: "It is highly desirable, both on our own account and on that of our Allies, that a settlement of our loans be rendered as quick and as easy as possible. Our chief debtor is, of course, Great Britain, and this arises naturally because Great Britain has liberally pledged her credit to sustain that of her Allies. We have now become the leading economic Power in the world, and have developed the Panama Canal and our Navy and Merchant Marine, which make these islands more than ever important to us.

"The British Empire at this moment comprises one-sixth of the land area of the whole world, and according to British economic experts the surplus capital of the Mother-Country will be expended for many years to come on the development of the agricultural and mineral resources of the great self-governing Dominions and India. I imagine that Great Britain would not object to such a disposition of these island, especially as they would go to a friendly Power. I see nothing in such a proposal to offend the just pride of a great people, whereas such a liquidation of a portion of the British debt might be a happy solution of part of Great Britain's immedate financial problem."

FRANCE BLOCKING RUSSIAN TRADE

Is Determined Not To Sanction It Till Soviets Recognise Debt To Her

BY EDWIN L. JAMES

Paris, April 2.—President Wilson's proposal that the allied and associated powers declare forthwith the lifting of all trade restrictions against Russia is opposed by the determination of the French Government not to participate in any such step until the Moscow Government recognises the debt of 26,000,000,000 francs which Russia owes to the French Government and other French interests. And it must be remembered that France has the promise of England, Italy and Japan to formulate no Russian policy of any kind which any one ally may hold derogatory to its interests.

At the negotiations which will soon be opened in London between the representatives of the Allies and of Russia, the representative of France may be expected to present the French claims with vigor. The Russian delegation is headed by Krassin, who has been widely quoted as saying that the Russians will not for a moment consider their debts to France because the Soviet Government has wiped the slate clean of Russia's old obligations. Unless Krassin reverses himself it is altogether likely that French opposition may prove a bad hurdle for the resumption of commercial relations with the land of the Soviets.

For the benefit of American business men who hope to do big things in Russia one may be permitted to go a little deeper into the situation. The Soviets admit that for the present they are not in a positon to begin a large export business, largely because of the lack of transportation facilities. They propose to pay for their purchases in the near future with gold. Now, France is not producing or manufacturing enough for her own needs, and so has nothing to sell to Russia for the present. England, America and Germany are the nations which would sell to Russia in the immediate future, and therefore the nations to which the Soviets' gold would go.

That does not suit France, who wants at least a large share of that gold in repayment of the 18,000,000,000 francs she has loaned Russia and the 8,000,000,000 more owing French business men on pre-war transactions. Before she takes any step which would encourage the export of Russian gold she wishes to make sure she will get part of it.

There seems to be a good deal to be said for the French case. All the world seems to regard France as a debtor nation. The debasement of the value of the franc is laid to the fact that France owes money. But, according to French bookkeeping, France is not a debtor but a creditor nation. What is owing France from Turkey and several smaller European nations will on paper pay what she owes England.

What are the other big items on France's books? There is the 15,000,000,0000 francs she owes America, and on the other side of the ledger are the 26,000,000,000 which Russia owes her, and some 50,000,000,000 due her from Germany under the terms of the treaty of Versailles. Thus, against the 15,000,000,000 francs which France owes America the French Government bookkeepers count 76,000,000,000 due France from Russia and Germany. That is, France is again on paper a creditor nation by 61,000,000,000 francs.

From this point of view the financial future of France depends upon collecting from Russia and Germany. If she does not collect she is in a bad way. This explains Premier Millerand's aggressive European policy for France. M. Millerand will not see Russian gold go to other nations if he can help it, and he bases his German policy on the enforcement of the Treaty of Versailles until France is paid, even if France has to enforce that treaty alone.

Furthermore, the French Government may be expected to attempt to get America to negotiate a settlement of the French debt to America against Germany's debt to France. Before long the Reparations Commission will have ready its plans for the issue of German indemnity bonds, 20,000,000,000 marks (gold) worth of which should be issued soon. Beyond doubt, America will be asked to place her valuation on these bonds, 55 percent of which will come to France with a view to turning over part of them in liquidation of part of the French debt to the United States.

In the meanwhile France wants her friends to help her obtain payment of her credits if her friends exact payment of her debts. That is Millerand's program.

To that program may be laid the failure of the Allies to adopt President Wilson's suggestion, made in his note of March 11, that the allied and associated powers declare simultaneously the lifting of all trade restrictions against Russia. France wants guarantees of her Russian debts first, and her allies are bound not to act without her consent.

WEATHER

Weather warm and probably fine. Very variable and likely light breezes along the whole coast.

Ferrarin Arrives

HEARTIEST congratulations are due to Lieutenant Ferrarin, Mechanic Cappannini, and our large and growing Italian community on the successful completion of another leg on the historic Rome-to-Tokio flight. With the arrival in Shanghai on Sunday of the first of the Italian flyers, final success of the flight is within sight. There are no wild tribes on the rest of the route to shoot them down, nor are there any great mountain ranges to be crossed. And the weather probably will be better than any of the very bad brands of it they have encountered thus far.

Lieutenant Ferrarin, who made the great flight over Vienna with d'Annunzio during the war, has completed 18 legs of his long journey. He has seven more hops to make and looks as fit as possible.

Lieutenant Masiero who had a smash-up at Canton is expected here this week by boat. He will take a plane here and fly back to Canton. Then he will make a new start for Tokio. Lieutenant Ferrarin apparently is not worried about which flyer gets to Tokio first as he is not starting on his next leg until towards the end of the week. Meantime he will be lavishly entertained by enthusiastic countrymen, by Chinese official and business circles and by other nationals.

Lieutenant Ferrarin has made the trip from Rome to Shanghai in 65 flying hours. The journey is not a hurried one. It is not being made against time, as is shown by the fact that Lieutenant Ferrarin is to stop here for the better part of a week. The journey probably will be completed in less than 100 hours actual flying time and it is being made to demonstrate and further develope the utilities of airplanes in mail and commerce. When we can get mail from Rome in three or four days, a great thing will have been accomplished for the Far East. Business out here has always been handicapped by the slowness of our mail service. And during the war even our cable service failed us. There were many occasions when a four day air service from Rome would have beaten our cable service to the same city.

Therefore all praise to these pioneers.

Will You Marry For Health, Wealth Or Beauty?
Students Of New York University Answer The Question

(New York Tribune)

When the young man and the young woman of the present day consider marriage, do they rush in blindly, or do they give serious consideration to the qualities they look upon as desirable in the one chosen to be the companion of a lifetime?

That the latter alternative is true in at least a considerable number of cases is indicated by the answers just tabulated to a questionnaire submitted to both the young men and the young women of certain classes in New York University. These students were asked whether they would choose as the most desirable requisite of a wife or husband health, wealth or beauty, it being taken for granted that the element of love already was present. A noticeable feature of the examination was the seriousness with which the young people discussed it. When the questionnaires were examined it was found that the vote stood as follows:

YOUNG WOMEN'S BALLOTS

Wealth	Health	Beauty
12	48	15

YOUNG MEN'S BALLOTS

Wealth	Health	Beauty
26	79	76

The article by Professor Binder which follows, was based on an analysis of these figures.

By Dr. Rudolph M. Binder
(Professor Of Society And Eugenics At New York University)

In this age of civilisation people tend to marry more frequently. They marry younger and are divorced more often. What is the trouble?

This statement may seem strange to many people, at any rate the part relating to marriage and the younger age of the prospective partners. Nevertheless the census of 1910 has brought out the fact very conspicuously that people not only marry more frequently, but younger. In 1890 the percentage of married, widowed or divorced women fifteen years or over was 68.1 percent; in 1900 it was 68.6 percent, and in 1910 about 70 percent. In the age group from fifteen to nineteen years there were, in 1910, 11.6 percent married women; in that of twenty to twenty-four, 51.4 percent; in that of twenty-five to thirty-four, 79 percent; in that of forty-five to sixty-four about 20 percent widowed and 6.8 percent divorced, which makes a total of 92 out of every 100 women who have come under the influence of marriage.

WAR INCREASED MARRIAGE

To offset these more frequent marriages we have, of course, more frequent divorces. These occur, however, not nearly so frequently as most people imagine. The divorce rate for women in 1890 was 0.4 percent; in 1900, 0.5 percent, and in 1910, 0.6 percent. The effect of the war has been to increase marriages to a considerable extent, although accurate data are not at hand for the whole country. Owing to the fact that many of these war marriages were perhaps entered into somewhat hastily, it is not altogether improbable that the divorce rate may increase slightly over that of 1910.

Taking then into consideration the increase of marriages and the younger age of the married couples, as well as the slightly increased rate of divorce, the question may well be asked "What are the reasons for the younger age of marriage and the increase in the divorce rate?"

Have the people who get divorced and others, who, perhaps, live not altogether happily, made the wrong choice? Is there any way of standardising the choice of mates? To be perfectly frank, there is no definite standard by which to try to guide the choice of the young people, especially if they are still largely under the control of passion rather than of reason. What is called "poor choice" may contain a number of elements besides passion. A few years ago a young lady from a family prominent in the social circles of New York eloped with her chauffeur. The case created a sensation and many people, as well as many newspapers, lauded her for what they considered to be following the dictates of her heart rather than the standard of her circle. People who were somewhat more sober and thoughtful wondered how long this family would keep from the divorce court. Recently the papers announced that this girl had obtained a divorce from her husband. Last spring and summer a young lady was frequently reported to go to cabarets with a young man to whom her parents objected. She had independent means and thought she had a right to follow the dictates of her heart. Eventually the two were married, and some people are undoubtely wondering how long this couple is going to keep out of the courts.

MANY SIMILAR CASES

I refer to these two cases not because they are more serious than others, but merely because they are more conspicuous. Hundreds of similar marriages are undoubtedly contracted, and sooner or later dissolved. What is the trouble?

Plainly it was not a standard of choice on the part of these young ladies. What they mistook for love was largely infatuation, and infatuation is based chiefly on some external quality in addition perhaps to mere passion.

Undoubtedly the girl who eloped with her chauffeur admired his skill in handling an automobile, perhaps the quickness of his eye and arm in avoiding collisions and his somewhat coarse, although vigorous features, which were in contrast to those of the young men in her environment.

The other young lady was explicitly said to have been attracted to her present husband because he was a first-class tangoist.

THE PART IN HIS HAIR

The writer was informed by a girl some years ago that she fell in love with a young man to whom her parents objected because "you see, he parts his hair so nicely in the middle."

In all of these cases and similar ones there was plainly no choice exercised by the young women. They were rather under the domination of an impulse which controlled them, because in all probability they lacked a sufficiency of mentality for self-control. It certainly was not love, because an infatuation and an abandonment of one's self should not be designated by the term love. It is this type of woman which sooner or later walks from her dream and seeks redress in divorce.

In love there must always be some motive of a higher nature than choice. No rational human being can for a moment contemplate entering into a lifelong union without giving due consideration to the possible consequences.

The motives for the choice are of course, innumerable, but they may be reduced to a dozen or maybe less.

CENSUS OF CLASSES

It was with the idea of finding out what young people of today consider the motive in the choice of the future mate that several classes at New York University were asked to indicate which one of three qualities they considered the foremost—beauty, wealth or health. These three qualities were selected because they were considered to be, on the whole, fundamental, and the basis for others. It is possible to derive other qualities from the three mentioned, as will be explained presently.

Among the qualities which may be motives for choice are, as the "remarks" to the questionnaire by the students revealed, character, personality, companionship, education, disposition and a few others. It was plain that the students had not analysed the situation, and looked upon each quality more or less as independent from other aspects of individuality.

Character, for instance, is plainly not something independent of other qualities, but rather a result of other qualities.

Companionship likewise is a complex of various qualities, not something independent of them.

Disposition depends so much on physical health that it is utterly impossible to separate the one from the other.

Education, in turn, is very largely a result of wealth—this term not to be used as implying a large amount of money or riches.

It seems, consequently, that most of the qualities mentioned by students in the questionnaire were in some way derivable from the three concerning which they were asked to state their preference.

DISPOSITION AND HEALTH

Not only is this true, however, but the three qualities referred to are very closely connected. As one of the women students aptly put it, "if you have the health you are able to acquire wealth because you are able to work, and you are likely to be good looking, because beauty without health is only skin deep."

It seems that the main stress was laid on health. The writer may perhaps be to some extent responsible for this, because he has for years been emphasising the importance of this factor, not only in individual development but for all society. And it is true that health must eventually be looked upon as the fundamental quality in a future mate. Disposition is plainly an effect of good health. Irritability, nervousness, whimsicality are the products of poor vitality.

The pleasant companion is he or she who is full of what we call animal spirits. This, again, implies good health. What we sometimes called personality is nothing more than the pleasant aggressiveness of physical buoyancy in men and in women the ability to make their movements gracefully.

Character, in turn, is the result of the qualities mentioned plus intelligence and conscience. It, too, reverts back to health, because the boy or the girl in poor health cannot get an education, has no ability to make innovations even to a small degree, and hence is usually somewhat lacking in the swiftness of repartee which in its way indicates at least some originality.

The great attractiveness of children, young people and adults is the result of abounding animal spirits, or at least physical buoyancy. It seems that most of the students very instinctively recognised the importance of health as fundamental, or followed the instruction on health which they had indirectly received.

The analysis of the canvass is illuminating in many respects. There was a total of 256 answers analysed after throwing out about 100 replies which did not answer the questions directly, but insisted on some other quality which had not been called for.

LOVE TAKEN FOR GRANTED

Before filling out the questionnaire the students were informed that they should take love and education for granted. Presumably no college man or woman would want to marry without love—that is, without some fairly intelligent motive for choice. It is likewise to be assumed that a college man will not marry an illiterate woman, or a college woman marry an illiterate man. Most people marry approximately on the same educational plane. When there are exceptions to this rule the marital ship stands a fair chance of being wrecked. The students were, consequently, asked to look for some additional motive which, perhaps, could not be taken for granted.

The fact that only 256 students made satisfactory answers does not invalidate the argument. The increasing importance of health has come to be recognised in the modern world, owing to the spread of physical education. Hence, the probabilities are that a larger canvass would give a similar results. While, consequently, the results may be somewhat unsatisfactory from the point of real numbers, they are nevertheless indicative of what is going on in the minds of college men and women.

The "remarks" which the students were asked to make were in only a very few cases flippant. In the vast majority they showed good sense and a keen appreciation of the questions involved. Indeed, some of the statements made by students indicate that our young people are serious in regard to this matter, notwithstanding a good deal of superficial jocularity. The writer was agreeably surprised in this respect, because the questionnaire was sprung suddenly upon the classes and no opportunity was given for much consideration. The remarks should consequently be considered as a spontaneous expression of the immediate attitude of the students. This is further proved by the fact that only about one-third of the students deemed it necessary or wise to make any personal statements.

There were about 181 men and 75 women who answered the questions in such a way that they were taken into consideration.

Wealth was chosen by 12 women and 26 men; beauty by 15 women and 76 men; health by 48 women and 79 men. This means that more than one-half of the women recognised the importance of health, while the men were almost evenly divided between beauty and health and showed a preponderance over the women in their choice of wealth. The remarks are strikingly in conformity with these figures.

NOT STICKLERS FOR WEALTH

One remark may perhaps be made in regard to wealth. It may be, of course, that few young people would want to put down frankly that they preferred wealth in a life partner. This may be true, but the writer is inclined to think that American youth actually cares less for wealth than for other qualities. The means for making a fair living and the transitions from poverty to wealth are quite frequent in our country. Thus, the American girl and boy are likely to be more influenced by other motives of choice.

It is, of course, characteristic that beauty should be chosen by 76 men as compared to 15 women. The male has been for ages cultivating certain qualities in the female; namely, those of attractiveness and charm based on good looks. Beauty has had a very large survival value in sexual selection, and it is consequently not at all surprising that such a large number of the men chose beauty.

On the other hand, a number of the remarks made by the girls who chose beauty show that it is not so much good looks as manliness and virility which they had in mind when they made their choice.

Finally, health was chosen by a proportionately smaller number of men than girls, but still by the largest number of men. As one boy remarked:

"If a woman is not strong she can neither be good looking, companionable nor have a good disposition, and she certainly cannot work; so what use is she?"

GIRLS APPRECIATE EUGENICS

A few of the students' remarks may be appropriate here. The first two show that the modern woman has a realisation of the danger of social diseases and likewise of the importance of eugenics.

"Clean life," and "perfect health in the man, personally, and in his family in order to produce healthy offspring," one girl wrote.

A married man asked whether he should give his present or his premarital choice. I answered:

"Give us the benefit of your experience."

Here it is:

"Got money; married for looks; wish it had been for health."

"Beauty and wealth are relative, and may be easily attained, or never attained, according to the personal point of view. Health is positive and cannot be attained if a chronic disease exists."

"I choose qualification of 'Health' for reason that any woman will make a good wife if she is healthy, which means, in other words, that she will not be grouchy and will make a good companion."

"I believe that after all health is the basic quality, because without health the fascination caused by beauty soon fades and the glamor of wealth grows dull."

The New Problem

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS
(New York Tribune)

However obscure the German situation remains—and, with the mistakes the outside world made in the case of Russia fresh in mind, easy and quick generalisations should be taboo—it is at least clear that the upheaval is almost certain to put a new strain upon the international association, which still operates in the names of the victors of the World War and through the league of nations.

Actually, Great Britain, France and Italy are all that is left of the Paris Conference. Upon them must devolve the task of formulating a policy in the presence of the newest German revolution, but at no moment since the war broke have the three nations been as separated by new, as well as old rivalries and jealousies and by totally conflicting national interests.

BRITISH POLICY OBVIOUS

In the present situation British policy is obvious. A strong Germany has no terrors for Britain, now that the German war fleet has been destroyed, the commercial fleet seized and the German colonies are in British hands. British interests would thus be best served by the restoration of order in Germany and by a measureable success of the conservative elements. Had Kapp been successful he would have enlisted quite as much British sympathy as have Korniloff, Denikin, and Kolchak in the case of Russia.

In an economically restored Germany the British would find their best customer now, as in the past, while a decisive defeat for the socialistic elements would, on the whole, fall best with the views of those now ruling England. But all restoration in Germany is conditioned on a degree of economic assistance from without and not impossibly upon a drastic modification of the terms of the Treaty of Versailles. Such modification could only be obtained at the expense of France and Poland and would naturally take the form of a reduction of the sums to be paid by Germany to France in the shape of reparations and of a similar reduction of the territorial claims of both France and Poland, notably in the Sarr Basin and in Upper Silesia. Added to this might be demand for a surrender by France of the right of veto, preventing Austria from joining with Germany.

ITALY'S SELF-INTEREST

Italy's policy is not less patently predicated upon self-interest. Italy has acquired by the peace settlements all of her old Irredenta, the crest of the Alps at the Brenner Pass, which she never claimed openly. The collapse of the Hapsburg monarchy has removed her heriditary enemy and if her dispute with the Jugo-Slavs remains unsettled, she can afford to wait a more favorable moment for final adjudication. Italian policy now seeks to avoid a reconstitution of Austria-Hungary, which would revive old dangers, therefore the fusion between Austria and Germany is approved by her. She seeks to reduce the Slav influence in Europe which is a bond of sympathy between herself and Germany, whose Polish and Czech neighbors are equally hateful to the German.

Thus, Italy can well see the restoration of Germany without misgivings. A common anti-Slav policy will unite both. Beyond this Italy is seeking desperately to counter the influence temporarily gained by France on the Continent as a result of the collapse of Germany. To this end she is constructing an alliance of the Hungarians, Rumanians and Bulgarians to balance the alliance of France and the three Slav states of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia. Instinctively the Italian and Frenchman are rivals, and recent events have accentuated the old bitterness.

It results, therefore, that Britain and Italy each serving its own legitimate aim not less manifest national self-interest, will agree in all undertakings designed to restore Germany and specifically in all efforts to modify the Treaty of Versailles to this end. But the French, on the contrary, have not gained the security as a result of the war which the British gained by the destruction of the German fleet and the annexation of the German colonies, or the Italians acquired as a result of the recognition of their demands to carry their frontiers to the summit of the Alps. Moreover, while neither Italy nor Great Britain has any material claim upon Germany for reparation, the French claims are enormous, and if they are not honored the repudiation may prove the prelude to French bankruptcy.

France thus sees her recent allies now becoming the champions of her traditional enemy. She realised that the British and the Italians have derived far greater security than has she from the war, absolute, security, in fact, and are now joining in a demand that Germany be made more powerful by the addition of German Austria, while France and her necessary ally, Poland, are made weaker both on the financial and the territorial side, through concessions demanded in the name of European stability and general economic reorganisation.

OUR AMERICAN MISTAKE

America, naturally more open to British than to French opinion, as a result of the common language, has for many months been filled with the various expressions of the British view, of which the Keynes book was one example of unconscious, but not less potent propaganda. But the French view has been very little explained and, as a result very little understood. There has been a tendency to see in the French position a deliberate purpose to prevent German rehabilitation and to insist upon continued plunder of defenseless Germany. Yet the truth is quite otherwise. What the French have objected to, what the British has advocated and the Italians have approved of, is not merely the rehabilitation of Germany, but the restoration of Germany at the expense of France and without cost to themselves, that is to the British and the Italians.

Now the German revolution has given new opportunity for the urging of these Anglo-Italian policies, and there is every evidence that new disputes and fresh difficulties are in sight. Yet, whatever else may be the American view, it is at least essential to preceive that France, with more dead in the war than Italy and Britain combined, with far greater losses due to enemy destruction, now finds herself called upon by her recent allies, both of whom have obtained their maximum of security and profit out of the common victory, to surrender material circumstances in her far less decisive gains to an undertaking sure to be of profit to Britain and Italy, but not less certain to lessen French indemnity and perhaps abolish French security.

FRANCE UNITED

French resistance to Anglo-Italian pressure will be the more determined because the present French Ministry, far more than the British or the Italian, possesses a national mandate for its policy. Indeed the suspicion that the Millerand cabinet was planning to make concessions would bring it down instantly, while its advocacy of national interests, its defense of what the whole nation regards as French rights, will fortify its position in a Parliament in which there is no real minority, so far as international issues are concerned. Not even in the great crises of the war was France more united or more determined than today, when she feels herself in the presence of new dangers, when she feels that the legitimate fruits of the victory won at such terrible cost are being snatched from her hands.

Ouija Conversations

That the dead may return has been conclusively proved in statements by Sir Oliver Lodge, Sir A. Conan Doyle and Sir William J. Bryan. Every issue of the daily papers from the first morning edition to the final-postscript-extra, contains accounts of conversations which have been held with people in the other world, and I therefore know that all this talk about spiritualism must be founded on fact. Everything that is in print is true.

Consequently, I joined the line-up at the Ouija board counter and bought one of the ingenious little contrivance, for I, too, desired to learn at first hand how everything is progressing beyond the Great Divide.

I had my room decorated in suitable style, with heavy draperies and lights dimmed. I had to burn disinfectant because I couldn't get any incense. Then I set up the board, placed my fingers on it in the approved fashion and started to wish that some dear departed friend would speak to me. For some time nothing happened, but I was determined to stay until the board should come across.

It did.

Suddenly the Ouija began to skid about from letter to letter and vice versa.

I was thrilling with suppressed excitement.

"Hello there," spelled out the board.

"Hello yourself," I came back, quick as a flash. "Who are you? Your voice sounds familiar, but I can't seem to remember your name."

"This is John Barleycorn speaking."

"John Barleycorn?"

"You heard me."

I gasped:

"You can't be the Barleycorn that I used to know—in the old, happy days. It isn't possible that you're John Barleycorn, the patron saint of booze?"

"You have me right, brother."

"Well," I asked, "where have you been keeping yourself all this time? From whence are you speaking?"

'From the land of departed spirits—the limbo of liquor."

"It must be heaven," I murmured.

"It is. All the old familiar faces are here. I can see old Hennessey with a pair of wings, flying around his favorite three stars; the Milky Way has been converted into the Green River; Saturn is saturated with sloe-gin, and Mars looks like the cherry in a dry martini."

"Are there any birds up there?"

"Yes; there are a lot of Old Crows being chased by Red Ravens."

The description was becoming altogether too vivid for me. I tried to check the Ouija board and prevent any further disclosures, but now there was no stopping it. So I resigned myself and listened to this wonderful description of paradise.

"They have re-christened the Great Bear," continued the spirit of the late John Barleycorn; "that name sounded too much like Spring Water, so now they call it the 'Great Beer.' And they ladle it out with the Big Dipper."

"What language do they speak?" I asked.

"Scotch and Irish," was the reply.

It all seemed too good to be true.

"The scenery here is beautiful," said John; "we sit all day and gaze out over the landscape covered with rocks and with rye, and occasional lone trees."

"What sort of illumination do you have?"

"Oh, everyone is lit up with moonshine."

"Are there any wars?"

"I should say not," was the indignant reply. "Every difference of opinion is settled at the Peace Conference—the Haig and Haig peace conference."

"What games do you play?"

"All kinds of games. We have a golf links with only one hole—the nineteenth; and in baseball the pitcher is not allowed to pitch any strikes, nothing but balls—high balls. After four balls the batter becomes a walker—a Johnnie Walker."

I heaved a mighty sigh.

"Well, good-bye, old pal," said the ghost of John, "I must go. When I talk so much as this I begin to get thirsty and, well—you know how it is. Good-by—"

The Ouija board came to a stop, and no amount of persuasion could make it resume its activity.

The tears started to course down my cheeks; I had learned the true meaning of the word "heaven."

You may shoot me tomorrow at sunrise.

Its Sense Of Proportion Undisturbed By Prosperity or Bolshevism

(New York Sun March 25)

The calendar has indicated since last Sunday that spring is here, but actually the fickle season will not arrive until tonight, when trumpets blare at Madison Square Garden for the grand entry of the opening performance of the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus.

There are a lot of changes For example, the living skeleton is no longer billed as Eddie Masher. Now he is Eddie Income, and how the married men will groan when they see how thin he is! On the other end of the platform, ladies and gentlemen, is the six-year-old 400-pound fat boy, who was born in Everett, Mass., in 1914, the same year the war started all this high cost of living stuff. The lad's name is Charley Expense.

Even Fred Walters, the British blue man, is getting bluer and bluer and bluer, and goes about playing "I've got the Reversed Heart Blues" on a mouth organ, until the nerves of Mlle. Clifford, the sword swallower, were on edge and she had her husband, a ticket taker in the circus organization, protest to Mr. Walters, who, however, is deaf, and turned that kind of an ear to the pleader.

SHOW MORE AESTHETIC

Last night at the final dress rehearsal Mlle. Clifford declared she was afraid she might be unable to keep her work and forget to withdraw a pair of shears or a carving knife from her throat and frighten people in the subway or in a restaurant or some place when she remembered.

Dexter Fellowes, the press agent, explained another of the changes yesterday. This is a more subtle one. "The circus is growing more aesthetic," he said. "You see evidences of it in the naming of the animals. They are not called Mike, or Pete or Jack any more. Nowadays they are called Eurinides, Cicero, Metempsychosis, Eucalyptus or Hannibal. I attribute it to the number of college men, individuals with independent means, who travel with the circus because they love the smell of sawdust and the society of animals.

"Say, boy," and here Mr. Fellowes addressed Roy Clark, who has charge of the monkeys "what are the names of those apes, please?"

PRESS AGENT LIST "FLAT"

"This one," said Mr. Clark indicating with a partially sliced carrot, "is Mike; that one is Pete and that Jack. This here is Roughhouse. In that other cage the little and the big 'un are both Minnie. The big 'un is the aunt of the little 'un. The other died fourteen months ago Her name was Minnie, too. We raised her baby on a bottle, condensed milk and patent baby food."

Mr. Fellowes sighed and looked about for vindication. He saw Congo Pete, the wild man who shares a cage with Sally the chimpanzee. Congo's lips protrude quite as much as Sally's and that is the reason his salary is so large, enabling him to winter in Southern California where he is said to be socially prominent.

"Congo, talk to Sally," requested Mr. Fellowes.

"Shhhhh," hushed Congo and turned his back.

That sort of left Mr. Fellowes flat, especially as there were newspaper men present, but he rose to the emergency, as the saying is, and pointed to a bumpy looking kangaroo.

"She has a baby kangaroo in her pouch," said he. "Born there, nurses there, and will not poke even its head out so long as there is a possibility of danger.

THE SHOWMAN'S BAROMETER

"The baby kangaroo is the showman's barometer. Never puts its head out when bad weather is approaching. Now the giraffe, whon bad weather is due, droops his long neck like a wilted calla lily.

"Yonder is the baby camel born a few days ago and just see how large it is." Mr. Fellowes indicated a wooly object that suggested a sheep that had been run over by a steam roller while lying on its side.

"Sorry I can't show you the entire herd of elephants. There are only about forty or fifty here We had to leave Fagin, one of the big bulls, in winter quarters Our claim agent was in hot water all the time settling difficulties growing out of that animal's pilfering. He'd take a bow from the back of a woman's dress, a buckle off a shoe, even objects carried in pockets weren't safe from him. However, he was a Barnum elephant. I never knew a Ringling elephant to do anything of that sort."

Anyway, the big show starts at 8 o'clock. The peanuts were all counted into their bags last night and the red lemonade had been lightened to a delicate pink to conform to the municipal ordinance concerning the display of revolutionary emblems.

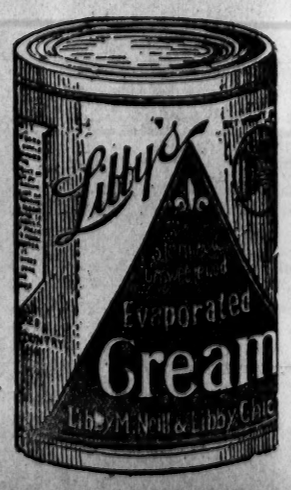
DELICIOUS CANDIES

Libby's CREAM



Never would you think that candy could be made at home so easily as this! It's no trick at all to make dainty bonbons, chocolates, stuffed dates and all kinds of fascinating sweets.

You don't even need to light the stove.

The base for them all is made by sifting two cups of powdered sugar and adding enough Libby's Cream to form a paste that can be handled. Work this with the hands until creamy, and flavor with any preferred flavoring.

To make coconut candy, roll small portions of this cream fondant in shredded coconut and stand on oiled paper to dry. For bonbons, color with vegetable coloring or add chopped nuts, raisins, figs or coconut. Or you can use the fondant to stuff stoned dates or figs.

The secret of the success of all these tempting candies lies in Libby's Cream. For its consistency is just right to combine with the sugar. Ask your grocer today for a can of this creamy milk that comes to you from rich dairying district and see how easily you can be your own candy maker.

Nanking Physician Is Host At Parents' Party

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, April 30.—To all those who attended the gathering at the home of Dr. Allen C. Hutcheson on Thursday afternoon, April 29 it was very evident that the missionary population of Nanking is rapidly increasing. Dr. and Mrs. Hutcheson had very kindly invited all the babies under one year of age to bring their parents to a tea on this particular afternoon. Sixteen of the little ones accepted. They brought their parents very promptly, seemingly to vie with each other as to who would be the first to arrive.

A photograph was one of the important features of the occasion. All the fathers stood with their backs to the camera, holding their respective babies over their shoulders and facing the camera.

Picture taking over all went back in the house and the fathers finished filling out a list of questions which had been given them to answer without the aid of the mother. Typical questions were: Weight of your baby at birth? What should you do when the baby cries at night? What do you do when the baby cries at night? From which side of the family do all the good traits come? Dr. Hutcheson read the answers and asked the mothers to verify them. This procedure was intensely amusing to the little ones, so much so in fact that the fathers and mothers decided it was time to take their little ones home.

As no announcement was made every baby left with the idea that he or she was the prize baby. As most of the babies present were helped into this world so successfully by Dr. Hutcheson all left with a large heart full of gratitude.

Big Steel Combine Being Formulated

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 1.—The Montreal correspondent of the Daily Telegraph states: "The preliminary steps towards the organisation of a five hundred million dollar steel corporation have been accomplished. Another corporation with a capital of 205 million dollars is being organised, comprising important steel, coal and shipping interest."

'The Geisha'

The Society of Literature and Art repeated to a crowded house at the Apollo Theater on Sunday evening their performance of "The Geisha," a musical comedy by Sydney Johnes.

The scenery effect and costumes worn were picturesque, and to the many Japanese who were present the way in which their national dress was worn must have occasioned them some laughs.

Madame Milich, who took the role of Mimosa San, is a Moscow artist of reputation, and she rendered her part with perfect ease, while Madame Polyanskaia as Juliette, and Madame Bartseva as Miss Molly and Roxy Polly San were in good form.

Mr. Lebedev in his comic part of Wun Hi the Chinaman carried the house by storm, and in his song "Chin Chin Chinaman" was encored more than half a dozen times.

Mr. D'Espagnioli was good as the Daimio Imari, and created some laughter in his Chinese mandarin coat. Mr. Grey as Fairfax and Mr. Selivanov as Cunningham were in splendid voice. Altogether the performance was a decided success, and the company is to be congratulated on its production.

PRINCE OF WALES IS DUE IN INDIA ON LAST OF YEAR

Bombay Visit Is Scheduled For December—Greeted By New Zealand Maoris

(Reuter's Service)

Simla, April 30.—The Prince of Wales will arrive in Bombay on December 20 next and leave India in the first week of April, 1921. The program proposed for the Prince's tour has been submitted to His Majesty's approval.

Rotorua, N. Z., April 29.—The Main Maori celebration in honor of the Prince of Wales took place today in brilliant weather. It consisted of war dances and other gentler gyrations in which a thousand Maori warriors, clad in embroidered loin cloths and carrying feather-tufted spears, and Maori maidens garbed in the brilliant native costume, took part.

A chief's robe of soft kiwi feathers was presented to the Prince besides an address which referred in eloquent terms to the Maori sacrifices in the war.

MAORIS PLEDGE FEALTY

The address concluded: "Your brief sojourn here will soften the sorrows of those whose dear ones have followed the setting sun. So, farewell, the Maori people will be true till death!"

The Prince, in his reply, which was received with tremendous applause, promised to follow the example of the Great Queen whose heart was with the Maoris from the day on which they swore allegiance.

The strike situation is unchanged. The whole railway running staff is now cut. A limitation of food purchases has been ordered to prevent supplies for the 6,000 Maoris who are visiting Rotorua and for the 2,000 other visitors running out.

Auckland, N. Z., April 30.—The Royal party with 300 leave men from the Renown was brought back to Auckland by the strikers in four special trains. The strikers gave the Prince of Wales a great ovation. The prospects of settlement are hopeful.

MEETS RAIL STRIKERS

Rotorua, N. Z., April 29.—The premier is meeting the railway strikers at Wellington today, hopes of a settlement have by no means been abandoned although the situation looks serious.

The Royal Party will return tonight to Auckland whence a fresh start will be made inland, if the strike situation permits. On the other hand should the strike prevent journey inland, the principal ports of both islands will still be visited and the tour curtailed as little as possible.
